A rare opportunity to taste Xynomavro in rosé form. With a touch of indigenous Moschomavro, this rose is bold in color, smell and palate. Deep pinkish red in color, the nose explodes with rich ripe red berries, crisp stone fruit and hints of white pepper and minerality. Floral, spicy and exotic, the palate is medium to full bodied, drinking like a clean light red wine. Ripe raspberries and wild strawberries roll in the mid palate creating a point of sweetness, following with a briny, vibrant mineral driven finish.
